The Time to Sow Oats.

We would never sow oats in the spring if we could always sow in the fall. Oats sowed in the spring will not make more than half as much as sowed in the fall, if the winter's frost does not kill them out, and then we would prefer ten acres sowed in the winter half killed, to twenty acres sowed in the spring, as a rule. We have made very fine oats planted in February and as late as March, but this depends upon the seasons in April or rather in May and about the first of June are dry months then your oats crop is a failure. But planted in September and October, and oats ought to be planted at least by the tenth of October, and we prefer September, you will nine times out of ten oat. These two kinds are by all odds the ble to apply it to the land freely .- A. P. hardiest, tuffest, and the finest yielders in F. in Home and Farm. pounds or bushels to the acre. The white spring oat was never intended by the Being who gave us the oat to be planted a common winter oat without detection. But remember you must sow oats this fall or you will regret it next spring and summer. - Scotland Neck Democrat.

New Cure for Milk Fever.

Out of three cows that were attacked by the fever two were very seriously ill. In the treatment of one of those that fell sick in the afternoon, applications of ice on the head, frequent injections of cold water, four cathartic powders, and every two hours a decoction made of one oz. of chamomile flowers with the addition of two tablespoonfuls of ether, were employed during the night. The cow lay on her side for hours and looked very miserable. In the morning of the next day the loins were covered with blankets, and these rubbed, or rather ironed, with very

This process was continued for about three hours, after which the cow stood up and gave about 21 quarts of milk. She was restored to health the next day.

One of the other cows was also very seriously ill. She was treated in the same way, with the exception that the ironing was continued from morning until noon, and again from 2 o'clock to 6 o'clock p. m. At five o'clock she was still on her side, but at 8 o'clock she got up without assistance and commenced eating straw. The third cow was not so dangerously affected, but still was unable to stand. Her case was relieved after a few hours ironing-Home and Dairyman.

Autumn Work.

There are many things to be attended to in Autumn, if we intend to start plants before the frost leaves the earth in spring. If we are to start only a few plants in boxes by the kitchen stove and south window, we need to have the earth, mold, and compost ready, as they can be gotten out and prepared to much better advantage now, than in mid-winter, when they must be chopped out of frozen masses, thawed out and dried before using. If the gardening operations are to be extensive enough to require the use of hot-beds, the trenches should be dug, and the frames erected this fall, so that they will be ready to receive the manure and glass at any time. When this is done, the frames should be covered over with boards, or poles and straw, to keep the snow out until time for occupying. Experience has taught me that it does not pay to shovel the snow and ice off the site, and chop a trench in the frozen earth in March, when I can do the same work in the quarter of the time in November.

SILAGE FOR MILK COWS .- While not a | tectors. few are recommending silage as a profitable feed for dairy cattle, President Chamberlain, of the Iowa Agricultural College, who generally knows what he is talking about, states that milk produced from silage is fed, the cost will be over two sons unable to purchase, gratuitously. cents-more than double. Silage may develop some advantage in the way of feed in time to come, but it can hardly be said to have done so yet.

A dozen of ordinary eggs should weigh about a pound and a half, or eight eggs to the pound. This is about the average, but some hens have been known to lay a uniform lot of eggs averaging six to the pound, while others have laid twelve eggs before making a pound.

Give your lowls charcoal, lime and meat skins. It is a capital preventive of disease.

Marl. As to the practical effect of marl upon sandy land, it is known to deepen it, even lower than any plow penetrates, in consequence of its power to fix manures, and retain them for use by plants. In sandy soil, without any calcareous mixture, manure is carried deep by the rains, and after final decomposition rises again in a gaseous form, unless previously taken up been marled, the marl and manure are is permanently increased; and the effect when she likes. of marl is more beneficial as well as apparent on sandy soil than on any other. before the hard freezes set in sufficient to stand the winter, and are spread over the land and the roots are matted all under Besides this effect of deepening and enthe soil, ready when spring opens to feed is highly important in many parts of the from every part of the soil and to grow country. Wheat derives special benefit off at once. Whereas if planted in the from the warmth thus given to the soil spring all this work done by the roots and is enabled to withstand severe freezes and tops last fall and during the warm of winter, which otherwise would be very spells in winter, must be done in the injurious. Appetite, Dyspepsia, and a disordered liver. My eyes also troubled me. I was compelled to wear a shade over them, and, at times, was unable to bear ex-posure to the light. I was entirely

CURED BY USING

three boxes of Ayer's Pills. I have no hesitation in pronouncing this medicine to be the best cathartic ever made.— James Eccles, Poland, Ohio.

I suffered from Constipation, and, con-sequently, from Headache, Indigestion, and Piles, for years. Ayer's Pills, which I took at the suggestion of a friend, have given me effectual relief. I commenced taking this remedy two months ago, and am now free from Constipation, the re-moval of which has caused my other troubles to disappear, and greatly im-proved my general health.—W. Keeler, Amherst. Mass.

I suffered from Constination, which assumed such an obstinate form that I feared it would cause a stoppage of the bowels. Two boxes of Ayer's Pills cured me, completely.—D. Burke, Saco, Me.
